

Recycle That Microwave!

Did you know that you can put microwaves into your curbside recycling bins? You can also include any appliances and electronics that are mostly made of metal. SOCRRA will make sure these items are recycled so they do not go into the landfill. These items can also be taken to the SOCRRA Drop-Off Center.

Easy Ways to Have a Green Valentine's Day

With Valentine's Day around the corner, here are a few eco-friendly gift ideas to remind your friends, family, significant others, and secret crushes that you care for them.

Recycled Valentine's Day Cards—Turn used envelopes into cards that you can put treats into. Cut a corner of an envelope into the shape of a heart, decorate the card, and fill it with sweets!

A Bouquet of Herbs—Give someone potted herbs over flowers. They not only brighten a room and smell fragrant, but they can also be used to cook a Valentine's Day dinner!

Local Flowers—If you buy a bouquet of flowers, then consider buying them locally to support local businesses and to cut down on greenhouse gas emissions from transporting imported flowers.

chocolates that are organic and fair trade is a great treat for your Valentine and for the environment.

Mindful Donations—Many people are rebranding Valentine's Day as "Generosity Day," in that spirit, make a donation to your local community in honor of your Valentine. This gesture shows thoughtfulness and consideration.

Green that Gift Wrap—Use recycled, re-used, or repurposed materials to wrap gifts. Consider extra fabric, decorative pages from a magazine, or reuse glass food jars as a gift box.
